From the Mist of Centuries Nature Gives Great Secret

Back in the dim mists of antiquity there had developed two wonderful arts, one of which was the making of flexible glass and the other was the hardening of copper.

The former is still a lost art, but the latter has been rediscovered and it is due to the ingenuity of an Austin boy, who for . some time past has been employed by the West End Consolidated Mining company at Tonopah-Fred Laurent, known to his famil-

In the excavation of Aziec rulus have been found many implements of hardened copper, with tool steel resistance, but the art of tempering was lost before the time of Christ and the alchemists of centuries have grown white-haired and have entered into · their rest after vainly searching for the buried secret.

Fred Laurent has stumbled upon the great secret -- so it seems. Two hack saws that he constructed under his method have been . forwarded to Washington. They responded to the supreme tests . and yesterday Mr. Laurent drew his time from the West End company. He showed his transportation from Washington and the • summons to leave immediately for the national capital to more fully demonstrate the secret that he had drawn from the mist
